

Alyssa Sinko, PMP, LLQP

Business Development, Retirement
Gallagher
Toronto, Ontario

Alyssa Sinko, PMP, LLQP, is a Business Development professional with 15 years of experience in group retirement, client strategy and project leadership across Canada. She currently supports employers at Gallagher in designing and enhancing workplace retirement programs that strengthen employee financial confidence and align with organizational goals. Her experience across additional financial institutions and organizations within the group retirement and financial services field has strengthened her ability to lead implementation, build trusted client relationships, improve operational processes and support strategic delivery. This breadth of experience gives her a practical understanding of how retirement programs are designed, managed, and delivered from multiple perspectives across the industry.

Alyssa is known for translating complex retirement issues into practical decisions for plan sponsors and HR leaders. She has been recognized as a high performer by leadership, has led major process improvement initiatives, and holds PMP and LLQP designations. Her focus remains on governance, engagement, innovation and better outcomes for members nationally, while bringing market insight, carrier relationships and a client-first voice to conversations, panels and advisory discussions.
