

Eric Stanger, J.D., M.B.A.

Retiree Healthcare Strategy
Via Benefits by WTW
Providence, Rhode Island

Eric Stanger is a seasoned benefits professional with 25 years of experience helping large, complex employers evaluate and design benefits programs, with a focus on retiree health benefits. He specializes in creating individual marketplace strategies that deliver cost management and financial stability while preserving the benefits retirees value most. For the past 14 years, Stanger has been a leader in the retiree health exchange industry. He currently heads business development for Via Benefits, WTW's individual marketplace, where he partners with organizations to implement sustainable, retiree-focused health strategies. Previously, he directed business development for Aon's retiree health exchange in the Eastern U.S. Before that, he spent seven years at Conduent, where he led its retiree health exchange business, overseeing client relationships, operations, sales, financial performance, and product development. Stanger holds a B.A. degree in political science from the University of California, San Diego, and an M.B.A. degree and a J.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin–Madison.